MEDIA ALERT

YOUTH HEARING AT CHICAGO URBAN LEAGUE CONNECTS VIOLENCE & CRISIS OF YOUTH EMPLOYMENT
 U.S. Sen. Durbin, U.S. Rep. Schakowsky & Cook County Board President Preckwinkle Join Release of New Report:
 Industry & Retail Businesses Leave Inner-city While Violence Escalates

WHAT: The abrupt increase in Chicago’s gun violence, the clear evidence that shootings have a high correlation with joblessness and the research findings that both joblessness and violence are highest in the city’s lowest-income neighborhoods sound a clarion call for city, county, state and federal action on youth employment programs.

A new report commissioned by the Alternative Schools Network and prepared by the University of Illinois at Chicago Great Cities Institute, Abandoned in their Neighborhoods: Youth Joblessness Amidst the Flight of Industry and Opportunity, will be released at a youth hearing, More Jobs, Less Violence – Connecting Youth to a Brighter Future. The report shows a continuation of the trend that puts Chicago at the bottom among major cities in youth joblessness. It also highlights the dramatic migration of jobs by industry, retail and professional and related services from South and West Side neighborhoods to downtown and the already most prosperous areas of the city.

Hearing conveners, the Alternative Schools Network, Chicago Urban League, Westside Health Authority, Chicago Area Project, Black United Fund of Illinois, the National Youth Advocate Program, Youth Connection Charter School, La Casa Norte, Lawrence Hall, Mount Sinai Medical Center, Metropolitan Family Services and Heartland Alliance have organized a panel comprised of six young people and two representatives from businesses that employ youth. They will kick off a discussion at the Chicago Urban League with the agency leaders, elected officials and youth in attendance about what it’s like to be jobless in Chicago, what works for young people and employers and how to advance an agenda of expanding job opportunities and job preparedness programs through youth employment programs.

WHO: Panel will include Moderator, Susan Richardson, Editor & Publisher of the Chicago Reporter, six youth and two business representatives.
